Chinese Truce Fails; Fierce Fight Rages

NANKING, (AP) -- Field dispatches Tuesday reported fierce fighting broke out in Manchuria and in north central China within a few hours after Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek ordered a 15-day truce.

Government and Communist leaders were to meet separately with Gen. Marshall, special United States envoy, to discuss terms for permanent peace in this country, torn by civil strife for 10 years.

(Associated Press correspondent Tom Masterson radioed from Beijing that the government's central news agency charged the Communists with attacking four Manchurian cities four hours after Gen. Chiang's cease fire order to government troops became effective Friday.

(Masterson said it was likely the Red troops were without radio communication and were not in touch with the truce.)

Chinese Communist negotiator Chou En-lai, scheduled to meet Gen. Marshall, said he came "prepared to negotiate" all three demands of the government:

1. An exact formula for permanent cessation of hostilities.
2. A detailed schedule for restoration of communication.
3. A specific plan for agreed-upon redeployment of Communist and government troops into one nationalized army.

The spokesman said the moment was willing to accept the high court's announcement and leave the country but that persons around him were "arguing it is his historic duty" to remain.

Giuseppe Romita, minister of the interior, emerged from a cabinet session and told newspapermen "everything is up in the air."

Reach Stalemate Over Lake Strike

TORONTO, (CP) -- Negotiations toward settlement of the Canadian Seamen union's lake strike reached a stalemate Monday night.

The Dominion Marine association after conferences -- one with union representatives disclosed a new four point settlement plan and said recognition of the union as bargaining agent for all lake ships was the sole remaining issue which presented difficulty.

An eight-hour day was no longer considered a major problem.

The union countered with a statement saying the operators were attempting to falsify the issue and had refused to accept a "genuine eight-hour day."

The operators had said they were willing to take back all crew members except those "implicated in acts of violence."

Application for an eight-hour day in place of the present 12 hours -- would be made on terms to the National Labor board and details of its application would be submitted to a commissioner.

The union in reply said its proposals had been considered reasonable by Labor Minister Atchew.

The "three-point" plan on him to take over the ships at once and submit the agreement with the union on the basis of those same proposals.

Mr. Atchew said the union's proposals were "reasonable" and that he would try to bring about a settlement.

WASHINGTON, (AP) -- Federal conciliators threw a new proposal into the boiling mixture of labor pot Monday after a congressional committee, sensing failure, decided to try writing its own recipe for peace.

The labor department men in a do-or-die effort to avert a strike of C.I.O. dock workers on all coasts at midnight Friday, suggested a new proposal for the shorter work-week demanded by sea-going unions.

On the basis of repeated union statements that only shortening of the working week can prevent a strike the proposal seemed foredoomed to failure.

FAMILY SECRETS

Sharing Household Secrets with Child
Creates Harmonious Relations

By ANGELO PATRI

There are secrets in every family, of course, but some of them are just the privacies created in the home and are dealt with easily. Some of them are family matters that never should have been made secret. Some rare ones are real skeletons that are better kept locked away. The point of the situation here is that the fewer the secrets the better, and the greater the chances for their preservation.

The big, dark secrets in the family closet usually are taken care of by the very dread they breed. Those that make trouble in the family are the unenviable ones, such as the family income, family plans, family traditions. These should be made plain to the children right from the start, so that they become accustomed to living within their limitations—for these family secrets do create family limitations.

Children should know about the finances of the family as soon as they indicate sufficient growth of understanding to be treated with the facts. That will be early in their growth, if they are treated to the truth at the beginning. If a child is given everything for which he asks, no matter at what sacrifice to the family, he will grow up with the notion that there is no limit to the fortune of the household. When he becomes old enough to make his demands so early that the family no longer can meet them, it is too late for him to adjust to the realities and there is a general upheaval, often very costly to all concerned.

Plan Restoration
Of Zulu Village

CAPE TOWN.—Headquarters of the infamous King Dingaan, the Natal enemy of the former royal kingdom of Zululand, may rise again from the ashes it became when the Zulus used a "scorched-earth" policy in 1838.

The South African Historical Association commission is considering rebuilding the most important site in the kraal. The intention is to restore some grain bins, which have remained untouched since Dingaan's defeat in 1838, and some other buildings, which were destroyed by the British.

The history of Dingaan is one of murderous treachery. In 1837, Piet Retief, leader of the first party of Boer immigrants to enter to settle in the country and then was murdered by the Zulus under Natal, received formal concession Dingaan's orders. After two unsuccessful attempts to avenge their slain in which the Boers were aided by the British, Dingaan's army was defeated on Dec. 16, 1838, by a Boer force under Andries Pretorius. The defeat of the Zulus as well as the anniversary of the proclamation of Boer independence in 1839, is celebrated in South Africa on December 16, Dec. 16.

From several descriptions written by contemporary European traders and missionaries it is believed this kraal was formed of two concentric circular hedges between which stood the circular row of huts. Opposite the entrance were the king's quarters where his wives were housed in a section which meant death to any male intruders.

According to a report left by Retief, the royal kraal contained 1,700 huts, each of which accommodated about 20 men, forming more of a barracks than a town. It was here that Retief and his associates were killed by Dingaan. When the avenging Boers arrived at the kraal a few months later they found it in flames and deserted.

Battle Over Sand

WADEBRIDGE, Cornwall. A battle of the beaches which King Henry III started in 1261 is still raging along this strip of Britain's coast almost seven centuries later.

The monarch who ruled from 1216 to 1272 granted a charter to the farmers of Devon allowing them to take sand from the beaches for use as a fertilizer. The sand was valued for that purpose because of its high lime content.

Now farmers are finding their ancient privilege challenged by beach owners whose living depend on having sandy stretches where visitors can play.

They say that stretches of beach are being stripped to rock and shingle by farmers who remove the sand with bulldozers and 10-ton lorries. Children, they claim, are in danger of drowning from stepping into unexpected holes made by these operations and in some cases the levels of bays have been affected.

It is estimated that 500,000 tons of sand have been carried away from Hurllyn bay, near here, and that the level of the bay has dropped five feet. Foundations are being undermined, property owners say, and roads leading to the beaches are in danger of collapsing.

There is difficulty in settling the dispute because a law—even one made in 1261—is still law. But property owners believe that what might have been all right in King Henry's day, when sand was taken away in mule carts, is wrong today when the job is done with bulldozers and lorries.

FOR QUICK RELIEF OF HEADACHE & Other Pains

Itching, Burning, Stinging
Eczema or Salt Rheum

Eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called, is one of the most painful of all skin troubles. The intense burning, itching and stinging, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to heat, or the hands placed in hot water are most unbearable, and relief is badly needed.

The relief offered by Hurlock Blood Bitters is based on the knowledge that such ailments as eczema, and other skin troubles, are caused by an impure blood condition.

Bring about inner cleanliness by using B.B.B. to help cleanse the blood of its impurities.

Doctors Prove 2 out of 3 Women can have Lovelier Skin in 14 Days!

READ WHAT THE 14-DAY PALMOLIVE PLAN DID FOR MRS. CHARLES SHORR OF DETROIT, MICH.

"My complexion had lost its soft, smooth look. So I said 'yes' when invited to the new 14-Day Palmolive Plan—along with 1284 other women. My group reported to a leading Detroit skin specialist. Some of us had dry skin, some oily. After a careful examination, we were given the plan to use at home for 14 days.

"Here's the proved Palmolive Soap—your face 3 times a day with Palmolive Soap—Then—each time—massage your face with that soft Palmolive lather... as you would a cream. Do this for a full 60 seconds. This cleansing massage brings out the full beautifying effect of Palmolive lather for your skin. Then just rinse and dry.

"After 14 days, I went back to my doctor. He confirmed what my mirror told me. My complexion was brighter, clearer! Later I learned many skin improvements were observed by the 1284 women who got seeable, feelable results! The 14-Day Palmolive Plan for me for life!"

YOU, TOO, CAN LOOK FOR THESE BEAUTY RESULTS IN ONLY 14 DAYS!

- Brighter, clearer skin • Finer texture • Better tone
- Fewer blemishes • Less dryness • Less oiliness
- Smother skin • Fresher, clearer color

(This list is from the reports of the 1284 examining doctors)

There is a large army of outdoor men who have learned to depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Riding on trains or trucks causes a jarring which is hard on the kidneys as is also the exposure to all kinds of wind and weather.

This medicine goes to stimulate the action of the kidneys and relieve the backaches which so often result.

For over half a century they have been popular with railway men, truckers and farmers.

Canadian Accent an Asset

Frances MacDonnell Dennis in The Ottawa Journal
A London paper recently printed a story by a Canadian ex-serviceman revealing that 20,000 Canadians planned to go into Ceylon street on this side of the Atlantic. Nine thousand were reported in the same article to be already settling in this country. It is not hard to understand.

Few Canadian civilians now in England are able to appreciate fully what the Canadian saw in England. The majority of young Canadian women who have settled in this country in recent months are the wives of Englishmen. They have, for the most part, fitted, or tried to fit, into a groove which is already partly channelled out for them. Many have not, with an easy and others have openly expressed dissatisfaction.

THE CANADIAN GIRL who sees London through the eyes of a Canadian ex-soldier dashes from one end of the city to the other and back again several times during the first two weeks to follow up some small variety act which was a hit in 1942, or to listen to a Cockney comedian whose ungovernable wit contrasts sharply with our own carefully culled humor. She visits the "pubs", and finds that the average Englishman will discard his traditional conservatism and tell you what he does, what he thinks and why he thinks it, what.

Britain to Keep Meandering Roads

LONDON.—German "autobahnen"—wide, straight, concrete-surfaced highways reminiscent of the Roman roads which left their mark in Britain—will not serve as a model for this country's post-war road system.

A. J. Barnes, minister of war transport, discussing road improvements in the commons said:

"Our roads must be designed to enable the motorist, cyclist and hiker not only to reach their destination swiftly, easily and in comfort, but to enjoy every moment of the journey."

This involves preservation of the meanders, with sweeping curves that bring the traveler in sight of beauty spots; the continued passage of roads through some remote villages instead of bare countryside; the planting of shrubs along the highways and a firm determination to avoid choosing road sites by drawing a straight pencil line on a map between two points.

Gets Approval

Mr. Barnes, with these qualifications in mind, received house approval of a trunk roads bill. In 1936 the trunk roads act transferred to the national government the responsibility for 4,499 miles of road and the new bill adds an additional 3,083, including 794 miles in Scotland. Before 1936 responsibility for the roads was vested in a large number of local highway authorities, with inevitable difficulty in maintenance, improvement and extension.

The new bill empowers the minister to make substantial changes in road design, improve side roads to increase the safety and convenience of their junction with a trunk road, construct bridges or tunnels over or under navigable waters and take responsibility for the condition of bridges on the trunk roads.

The trunk roads under national control represent only a small fraction of the British road mileage—180,000—and some members said in debate they believed the government should take charge of a far greater share. They noted an estimate that these roads would be carrying 12,000,000 motor vehicles by 1962. The government should enforce some uniformity in engineering as motorists often found themselves in a skid before they knew it.

Gives Welcome to Governor-General and Lady Alexander

Canada's governor-general Viscount Alexander of Tunis and Maj. Paul Triquet, V.C., chat during the official civic reception in Toronto. The vice-regal party went to Hart House, University of Toronto, following the ceremony.

The road surface had been changed. A member said the London-Birmingham road, 110 miles long, had 23 types of surface.

Maj. R. H. Turton, Conservative member for Thirsk and Malton, objected to any suggestion that roads should be allowed to meander. "As I see it, the modern road, the trunk road, is not the road our ancestors made, that dangled from village to village, that wound round the little village streets, and which, if now used as a trunk road, congests traffic, endangers the lives of our children, and does not succeed in bringing the produce from the factory to the port quickly," he said.

NATIONALIST FORCES MOVE UP TO THE FRONT LINES OF MANCHURIA

PRIMITIVE TRIBESMEN HARVEST BANANAS IN PANAMA FOR U.S.

HUNDREDS OF VEHICLES GO UP IN SMOKE—Firemen played seven hoses into this garage in New York City in a futile effort to save an estimated 250 cars and trucks that were stored. The fire broke through the roof of the structure and gutted the building.

VERSATILE—Barbara Hale, a graduate of Chicago art school, can always fall back on her artistic ability should she forsake Hollywood.

UNCIVILIZED NATIVES SHIP BANANAS TO U.S.—Choco Indians harvest bananas deep in the Darien Jungles of Panama for shipment to the U.S. Discovered by the Spaniards in 1501, the Chocos are believed to be the Western Hemisphere's wildest living tribe. Hamilton Wright of New York led a photographic expedition 100 miles up the Rio Choco River to bring back this series of pictures. Upper left photo shows the expedition meeting the Choco Indians, a tribe that has rarely come in contact with civilized people. Father Palofax, a native Catholic priest, facing camera, persuaded them to meet the group. At lower left, Wright inspects a native's machete to attest razor-sharpness that can cut a banana plant down in a single stroke. While gathering bananas the natives stirred up a wild boar, killed him with a bow and arrow, then loaded it into a piragua, as shown at upper right. The native boy, at center, wears symbolic tribal designs on his face that were painted with berries from wild plants, a Choco custom for centuries. The piraguas in which the tribesmen are transshipping their harvest to a river steamer, in lower right photo, are 50 feet long and hand-carved from a solid piece of mahogany.

MOVE TO MANCHURIAN FRONT—Nationalist forces aboard coal car are rushed to Szepingkai, as reinforcements in government's swift-moving drive on Changchun, capital of Manchuria. There has been bitter fighting along the line for the important railway which runs from Shanghai to Mukden, Manchuria. Both Chinese Communists and Nationalists seek control of Manchuria. (Photo by Harlow M. Church, Acme staff photographer.)

SECRET REVEALED—Doris Day, vocalist with Les Brown's orchestra, just revealed that she was married two weeks ago in Chicago, to George Weidler, brother of actress Virginia Weidler.

MERCY WHEAT SINKS IN BAY—Five box cars loaded with wheat for famine-stricken nations plunged into St. Louis Bay, Superior, Wis., when 19 rail cars rolled two miles downhill. Two of the five cars outline a wheat loaded freighter in the background.

NEWBORN ZEBRA—"Woogie" stands close to her mother to have her first picture taken the day after her arrival in San Francisco's Fleishacker Zoo. The 37-inch baby zebra was named Woogie because her seven-year-old brother is called "Boogie." The parents originally came from Africa.

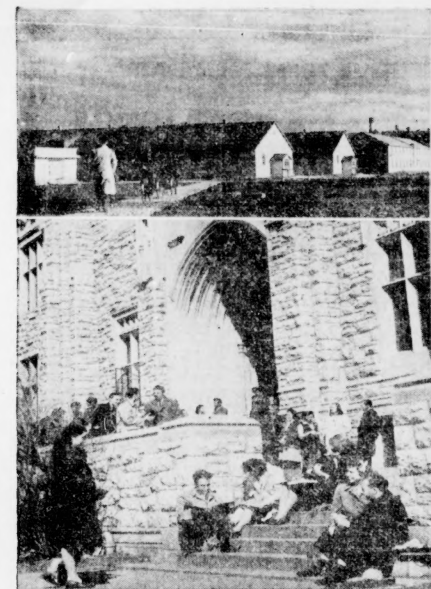

CAREENED TO DEATH—Earl Lloyd Jones, 26, of Oakland, Calif., was killed when his car went out of control and careened across the highway, rolling under this 15-ton truck. It took firemen and a wrecking crew more than an hour to remove the body, which is shown on the stretcher at right. The accident occurred at Pinole, Calif.

DISTINCTIVE HEADRESS—The Victory parade in London should reveal an unprecedented array of military hats if the headdress of these warriors is any criterion. The three soldiers, above, struck a fashion note upon their arrival at Victory Camp in Kensington Gardens.

KIDNEY STONES

The presence of a kidney stone as the name indicates, means that the body has allowed a hard and unyielding stone to form within the kidney. In some cases, these stones will be hard enough to cut glass. As a general rule, kidney stones form around the age of 40 and the average age at which they start is about 38, although stone formation may occur at any age. Kidney stones are more common in men than in women and seem to be predisposed to by a sedentary life. Thus, the patient who works sitting down at a desk all day seems to be in greater danger of kidney stones than the one obtaining active exercise during the day.

There are many theories regarding the causes of kidney stones; however, the principle cause is one which interferes with the free flow of liquid away from the kidney. Whenever any condition exists which causes a back-pressure, the danger of the formation of a stone is increased. Thus, certain disorders found in men which interfere with kidney drainage are very commonly accompanied by stone formation. For example, the pressure from an enlarged prostate gland may partially stop the outflow of liquid away from the kidney. I believe that this is one of the factors which explain why kidney stones are more frequently found in men than in women.

Health in any portion of the body depends upon the prompt removal of waste products and disease follows when such removal is not accomplished. Any factor interfering with the free escape of the waste carrying fluid from the kidneys would in turn be followed by stagnation, poor drainage and consequent irritation.

A second cause of kidney stones is any form of diet which produces an excess of irritating material which must be thrown out in the kidney elimination.

In some individuals there is such a strong tendency to the return of stones after they have been removed by surgery or have passed out of the body, that it is correct to say that they have "stone forming kidneys." The kind of water habitually taken seems to have some effect in predisposing to kidney stone formation; for example, those drinking hard water which contains large quantities of calcium or magnesium salts, appear to develop kidney stones far more frequently than others. I recommend that in every case where the patient is known to have a tendency to kidney stones, that distilled water be used regularly.

Some evidence has accumulated that lack of vitamin A in the diet will bring about kidney and bladder stones. The stone usually finds its way into the pelvis of the kidney and while in the beginning, it may have been fixed, it finally becomes movable, changing its position as the patient exercises. Kidney stones vary considerably in size, shape, composition and color; however, the larger stone will become moulded to fit the shape of the cavity which encloses it. While only one large stone may form, as a general rule, several are formed. Occasionally, there are stones in both kidneys at the same time.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of the paper only. Letters must

Unexplained Stock

By James H. Gray

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
In his statement in Parliament in justification of the 12½ per cent increase in farm machinery prices, Mr. Bisset made out a strong case. No one will challenge the facts on which the case was built. Steel prices have risen, wages have risen and the cost of important parts which are imported has risen. Our farmers will understand that when production costs rise the selling price must increase if a margin of profit is to remain.

But Canadian farmers have long harbored suspicions about the profits which were being made by the implement companies. Recent actions of at least two implement companies in granting stock options to officers and certain employees will, rightly or wrongly, do nothing to allay the suspicion of the farmers.

THE FINANCIAL statement of Massey-Harris, the biggest implement company and the one likely to profit most from the 12½ per cent increase, contains these facts: On January 9, 1946, the company sold to certain of its officers and employees rights to buy 115,250 shares of the company stock at $14 ½ per share. These options are to run for three years. The beneficiaries can take up one-third of the stock in each year.

If the price of the stock goes up or the stock exchange, these favored officers and employees can take up their option and sell their stock. It so happens that the price of Massey-Harris stock has gone up.

Within three months these favored officers and employees saw the stock rise $5 a share. On 38,000 shares they made a profit of $190,000. By selling their stock they can get that money. And what is more they will not be liable to the payment of a dollar of income tax because this is a capital gain, not a profit. Our western farmers will have some difficulty understanding

Gripes to Ike

On recent inspection tour of Tokyo, General Eisenhower asked Cpl. R. L. Dutton, above, of Griffin, Ga., if he was getting enough to eat. "The soldier said he was, but 'the cooking is no good.' NIGHT ROUNDS:

Although the great Nelson officially died at the battle of Trafalgar, many customs of today's Navy teach Jack Tar that Nelson's spirit lives on. "Night Rounds" are still being made with a huge brass candle lantern containing a single lone candle. For practical purposes, a powerful electric torch is also carried—but the Navy continues to cherish the glow of tradition which radiates from this 18th-Century lantern!

Elizabeth Woodward Says . . . INVITE HER FOR A REAL VISIT

Summer's coming. Are you beginning to think of all those days and nights of vacation and how you're going to spend them? Well, why not invite a friend to come for a visit . . . maybe a week, maybe two, maybe three? Maybe you've already thought of that . . . and you've tossed the idea into the wastebasket. Your town hasn't much to offer in the way of fun. And where this girl lives there's plenty going on . . . she's always busy having fun. What could you ever do to keep her entertained for any length of time?

You wouldn't have to entertain her every single minute. And you don't have to do it all yourself anyhow. What you want to consider carefully is getting her off to a boys like her, they'll fix up their own dates with her after that first week. DIG UP ALL the attractions your neighborhood has to offer. Take her sightseeing, take her on your errands, take her bowling, to the movies, take her swimming and to the afternoon dances. If special events are planned, like a concert of a club picnic, instead of passing them up, take them in and make parties of them.

If your friends like her . . . they will cook up excitement that will include your girl friend. And your girl friend will have some ideas of her own. And the boys will too. After all you're not the only one who starts things in your gang.

DON'T FEEL that you must spend every second with her. If she feels at home in your house, she won't mind being left alone occasionally. If you have something else to do . . . fix her up with something to occupy her time and energy, and go about your business. If you just don't feel like playing tennis, get a partner for her, and let her go her merry way. If you're dated up for something special, and the invitation isn't elastic enough to include her, get her a date, and go your separate ways. Schedule highlights for the weekends, and something rather big to look forward to at the end of her visit. Having something to anticipate will help to pass the time. And after all, just sitting still on the front porch hashing things over ought to be fun . . . you two are together!

An Opportunity for Employers!

NOW is the time when an employer may secure the best type of young person to train on the job, to become one of his regular employees.

CANADIAN VOCATIONAL TRAINING — a joint program of the Dominion and Provincial Governments — arranges and supervises the placement of veterans, either men or women, for training on the job.

THE EMPLOYER pays the trainee what he earns during training, and where necessary the Dominion Government will add to this amount so that the veteran may have a living income while training.

THE DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS gives approval for training veterans on the job in any occupation which is suitable, and where the veteran will master a definite occupation, looking to his future employment.

IF YOU, as an employer, have any training vacancies in which veterans may be placed, contact the nearest representative of CANADIAN VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

OR get in touch with the nearest office of the NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE.

This is a real opportunity for employers to secure trained, efficient personnel, while aiding rehabilitation.

Church-Building Boom in States

The United States is facing the biggest church building boom in its history, according to leading architects who attended the North American conference on Church Architecture.

Representing most of the states of the union, the church leaders and architects agreed that new materials and methods of construction might help neutralize, to some extent, the present high cost of building.

PLANS AND DESIGNS exhibited at the conference showed few extremely modernistic churches, but all had provisions for recreation and social rooms.

Among the demonstrations was one of electronic bells which proved that the same volume and quality of music may be secured from equipment costing $3,000 and weighing less than 1,000 pounds as can be obtained from similar equipment costing $50,000 or more. Similar changes are expected to take place in the field of organ music.
